

THE WHO THE WHAT

by Ayad Akhtar

Nov 15 - Nov 28

THEATER W RKS HARTFORD

From the Director

"The difference between the who and the what at the heart of love, separates the heart. It is often said that love is the movement of the heart. Does my heart move because I love someone who is an absolute singularity, or because I love the way that someone is? That is to say, the history of love, the heart of love, is divided between the who and what."

Jacques Derrida

Zarina is a brilliant, strong-willed, and independent young woman—an aspiring author who's determined to tell the human story of the man known as the Prophet, Muhammad. After years of being taught by her devoted yet overbearing father all of the "what's" of the Prophet's life—Aisha was his favorite wife, he had a gap between his teeth—she's committed herself to the task of sifting out the "who." Heedless of her younger sister Mahwish's assertion that women in Islam are "just fine," Zarina is determined to shine a light on "what the faith does to women." Zarina's father, Afzal, has other plans in mind. A charming and savvy businessman from Pakistan, he prides himself on knowing what's best for everyone—particularly Zarina. When he successfully matchmakes Zarina with Eli, a patient and good-natured white convert who runs a masjid, Afzal is certain he's found the answers to her endless questions about Islam and about love. When the truth about Zarina's book is finally revealed, however, everyone is forced to confront the source of their own love and test the bounds of their forgiveness.

The story of an immigrant family at odds with itself is an old one. At its heart, Akhtar's play is about a father unwilling to change in order to keep up with the new world in which his daughters now live. Yet The Who& The What feels newly poignant in this moment of extreme national separation. Not only is our country visited by deep religious and political divides, but we find ourselves physically divided in new ways as well, forced to breach even longer distances to reach our families.

I hope this fierce and tender story resonates with all of you. In a year marked by unfamiliar distance, it feels so special to have come together to share this story and to invite you back into the theatre.
