TALKIN' TO THIS CHICK SIPPIN' MAGIC POTION

STREAMING FEB 7 - FEB 26, 2021

THEATER
WORKS
HARTFORD

TALKIN' TO THIS CHICK SIPPIN' MAGIC POTION is the second show presented as part of our WORKshop Series. All of these works in development are potent examples of the gifts that present themselves in the midst of extraordinary challenge.

We made the decision last July to shift our programming to a streaming model, plan for a monthly membership, and expand our offerings from our usual six productions to twelve plays this season. It felt like it was the right path to sustaining a connection with our patrons, and they are vibrant, important contributions to our ongoing artistic efforts.

Giving time and space for playwrights like James Anthony Tyler to work with the keen eye of director Awoye Timpo, along with a probing group of actors to continue the development of MAGIC POTION, has been, well, magical. While this "work in progress" is only one stop along the way, we are deeply gratified that we played a role in its development.

Perhaps more importantly, we did not expect the rewards we would get from these WORKshop readings. Adding six shows gave us the opportunity to work with six new playwrights, three new directors (with three more to come) and nine superbly talented actors for the first time. This infusion of new talent, new energy, new voices and new collaborators has been a tremendous gift.

We hope you will join me in recognizing the great gift we have in supporting these new connections, and bringing these artists and stories to you this season.

Rob Ruggiero
